Current Search Bulletin #318

Position: Project Manager, Airports

Location: Florida

An outstanding opportunity exists for a midlevel airport civil engineer to serve as Project Manager within an accomplished team of aviation specialists as they grow their Florida practice.

The client firm operates two established offices within the State. Throughout their eight office network, the firm boasts approximately 180+ employees, with very low turnover. Sixty five percent of their revenue comes from their Aviation business line; their work in this market is the cornerstone of their reputation.

As they continue to achieve success in Florida, this firm seeks to augment their team with qualified professionals who share their passion, enthusiasm and overall commitment to the airports community.

Their next strategic hire will be for a Project Manager who demonstrates the flexibility and knowledge to work with projects throughout their clients' operation - airside and landside -- for small commercial and general aviation airports.

Responsibilities of the position include direct involvement with all phases of the project lifecycle including

- proposal preparation,
- subconsultant management,
- project scheduling,
- review/QA,
- client communications and
- personnel coordination.

This individual will report directly to the Office Manger, currently head of the business line for the Florida region. The successful candidate will be responsible for directing efforts of on site staff as well as individuals and resources available throughout the firm's network of offices.

Requirements include a BSCE, and a minimum of five years' experience working on airport design projects. P.E. registration in Florida, or the ability to obtain reciprocity is essential. Familiarity with FAA grant process is a definitive advantage.
